3 days, and
how I overcame huge stress and depression in my life.

After the rejection of investors and miss understandings in the family, I got too much stressed and depressed. I decided to travel somewhere alone. I called a friend and enquired about Mysore, I decided to go to Mysore and left home on 2 of January, it was around 8 Pm I reached Mysore and at 11 pm I took the room in Hotel Raj empire, in Lankar Mohalla. I stayed there and I went to the Mysore place and st. Philomena church Mysore on the first day. I explored the history, architecture and so more things on the first day.

On the second day, I chose to go to a Galli named Bada Makan, I went there in the morning. as usual, I was in my favorite dress, a white t-shirt, and my plain black shrug without buttons and black trouser, at first sight, they could understand that I'm a traveler, after few minutes of walking through thick Galli, I met a beegum, an old lady working on the streets, she was making cigars.

in My LinkedIn Article

I sat on the place tired, she asked me few things in Kannada, I couldn't get anything, I said "me Musafir hum, Kannada malum nahi ", I had started learning Urdu a few months back of that to read few poetries from Allama Iqbal and Hazrath Raza (Ra). I talked with her in Urdu, broken Urdu. she knew Urdu well. later she introduced me to a few more people in that Galli, I met people who make fragrance sticks, bangles, handicrafts, etc... everyone explained to me with so much enthusiasm.

Everything about how they make bangles and how they sell it in the market etc... learned many things from there, experienced many things, met new people. I saw how minimal they are living in. I saw family businesses, in a single home. I met people who live so harmoniously with no barricades or walls in between homes. it was their business sense that made me so wondered, they know more things than me, the one who studied 2 years in management and read 20+ business books.

Finally, in the evening they invited me to the music gathering in the mosque, went there purchased chocolates for kids, and enjoyed the concert. I came back to the hotel that night. the next day I went to the market, done a few research, and came back home highly ignited. I've gained so much energy and developed a strong mindset after the discussion with those business people.

I calculated the spendings, it was around 4500, will any psychologists will heal you with this amount? the humans did it for me, the people I met, the kids I distributed chocolates did it, the free music gathering heald me in a way no content will heal. so guys, travel, meet as many people, as possible, learn from them, contribute happiness, live with them, live in them, and let them live in you. live forever.

Few of my Qoutes!

Dear Employers, let's not pressure our employees they might be in hard situations.

Dear Employees, understand situation, let's starve together and share fortune when we have it.

Few of my Poems!

#SHAMEONFRANCE

Oh beloved god,
Call me back to you
They broke my heart
Let me suffer for all the sin
But, I can't stand people
Insulting my beloved
They hurt me beloved,
in a Way that no any
flame could do
No any blazer could do
Take me back to you beloved.

Suddenly the world got stuck
With the arrival of messenger
Reading the letter, bright sun
hot dim, darkness occupied
couldn't find the moon and stars
Letter made the talkative lips go quiet
Letter made the wandering heart go sick

29/10/2020

Oh spring, you're so near
I can hear birds chirping
from trees to trees
I can hear bees murmuring
to the Flower buds.

I can see the clouds opening
skies, darkening the canvas
to let the stars shine brighter.

I felt it, when fog arrived today
morning.
I can feel the wind preparing
its cool breeze ready.

Oh beloved
I wish I could learn
All the languages.
So that I can leave
Traces every where
I travel.
I can leave your beauty
To every corner of earth.
I can write poems about
You in every single language.
To let them know the beauty
That hold in a single creation.
To let them know the wisdom
That hold in a single human.
Oh beloved, I'm running out of Vocabularies, when I start describing
You.
It won't be enough even if the
Whole sky turns a canvas.
It won't be enough even if the
Entire ocean turns to ink.

When the clouds left sky
Mountain grieved, River went dry
People seized the land & slaved it
They took centuries old stones
They took sand and filtered it
And They made a beautiful home
On the grave of River.

And when the clouds came back,
Mountain flooded the river, with joy.
Rain gave soul and flesh
And it flooded over everyone, over
Every houses and every slaved land.

There was no sands to hold the water
There was no stones to direct the river
It just came, all over the one
Who killed it and graved it.

And Then people named it TERRORIST

Hustling days
So beautiful they are.
No worries to be sad of.
No moments to be
stressed off.

Just enjoying the process
Cracking challenges.
Managing people.
Deadlines after deadlines.

It isn't hectic as you see
I'm so passionate, it pleases me
Yh, I get tired when sun sets
But, I sleep so well.

Waking up again,
For another challenge,
To meet new people,
To see the result and to be
High.
